The Lunch Bag Chronicles

Review from CM Magazine
4 star - highly recommended
Share this with a class, or better still with your own children, and you are sure to hear moans and groans for the puns and tons of laughter for the humour.

About the Book

Every single day for six years, author, educator and father Don Sawyer scribbled stories, jotted jokes and pencilled pictures on his daughters' lunchbags. Part joke book, part journal and all good fun, The Lunchbag Chronicles is a heart-warming journey of a dad keeping in touch with his two little girls, even when they were thousands of miles apart. Meet a cast of delightful characters including valiant vampires, silly snakes, dozy dragons and funny food. Reconnect with your own family through The Lunchbag Chronicles. The jokes will make you giggle and the stories will remind you that being connected with the people you love is the most important bond of all.

About the Author

Don Sawyer is an author, educator and international development worker. He lives with his wife, Jan, and their dog Farley in Salmon Arm, British Columbia.

Miss Flint The Meanest Teacher in the World!

Miss Flint
The Meanest Teacher
in the World!
by Don Sawyer

$12.95 CDN
ISBN: 978-1-89460-139-9
Ages: 7-9

About the Book

Is Miss Flint REALLY the Meanest Teacher in the World? Well, she's so mean she tries to steal her students' Halloween candy. All the other kids in school have pets in their rooms, but Miss Flint throws a hissy fit at the very mention. And she carries a silver whistle around her neck, which she blows shrilly and often.

So what do the 4th grade kids of Haywood Elementary School do? Do they just give up or do they get even?

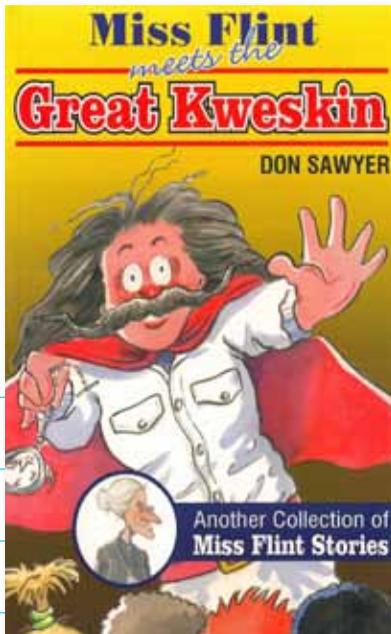

Join Janey and the gang as they come up with one riotous idea after another for thwarting the dastardly Miss Flint. And whether Miss Flint winds up stuck in a pile of horse manure or treed by a grizzly bear on the class picnic, the fun never stops.

About the Author

Don Sawyer survived a childhood in Michigan that included a teacher very much like Miss Flint. It has taken him a long time to get over that grade 4 year, and now he's getting even. He is happy to report that revenge is sweet and funny!

Don is an author, educator and international development worker. He lives with his wife, Jan, and their dog Farley in Salmon Arm, British Columbia.

Miss Flint Meets the Great Kweskin

About the Book

You know things are pretty bad when Miss Flint, The Meanest Teacher in the World, starts to seem tame. In this second collection of Miss Flint stories, her grade 4 kids have to outsmart the vicious vice-principal Mr. Porcer, who has four favourite paddles, including Black Death. And they match wits with Mr. Hackmore, the slimy teacher who, believe it or not, tries to marry Miss Flint! The seven stories in Miss Flint Meets the Great Kweskin continue the hilarious adventures of Janey and the gang as they not only lock horns with Miss Flint, but with a cast of brand new villains as well!

Recent Reviews

Don Sawyer writes with a sense of humour children can understand. He also brings a little authenticity to the Miss Flint stories as he evidently had a teacher like Miss Flint when he was in grade four. The new characters in this book add novelty to this latest collection of stories, and their actions allow Don to reveal the different sides of many of his main characters. Fans won't be disappointed.

No Way Out

Review from CM Magazine

This mystery is action-packed and fast moving.... The accessible vocabulary and short chapters will make No Way Out a good choice for any readers interested in mystery.

No Way Out
by Melanie Jackson

$9.95 CDN
ISBN 978-0-9813164-4-4
RL: 4.5
IL: 12+

About the Book

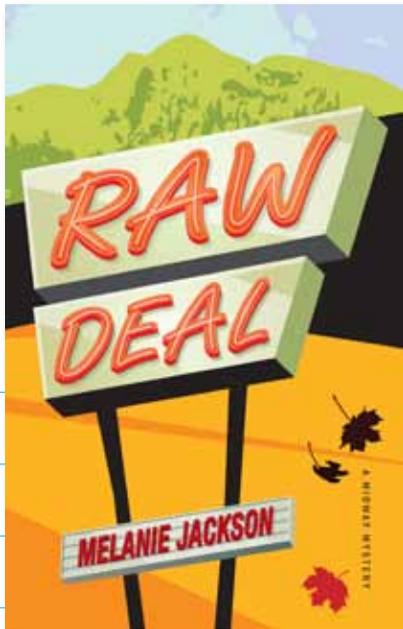

Sam Jellicoe, 15, didn't want to visit his mom in Winnipeg. He can't stand her flashy, boastful new husband Alvin. Sam would have way preferred to stay in Vancouver with his actor buddies. To escape Alvin – and the stifling prairie heat – Sam goes into Rafferty's Department Store on Portage Avenue. There he finds his problems are just beginning: a gunman takes him and several other people hostage. To find a way out, Sam must draw on his wits and his acting skills, and above all, keep his cool.

Running

Running
by Don Sawyer

$13.95 CDN
ISBN 978-0-9813164-6-8
Ages: 13+

About the Book

Running is a fast-paced story about friendship, redemption, and the triumph of love. Louie and Paul come from very different worlds. Yet they have one thing in common—tragedies have shattered their families. To bury their hurt, they run fast and relentlessly. A chance accident on the trails brings the two boys together, and an unlikely friendship grows. Joined by Annie, another loner who has secrets of her own, they form a threesome that runs like the wind in the hills above their town. But a disastrous attempt by Paul to join the school's cross country squad and an explosive encounter with their star runner turns the alliance upside down. Overcoming their anger and loneliness, the three find a way to become a team again—and hatch an outrageous plot along the way!

Recent Reviews

"Twenty years later and still powerful and current, Don Sawyer's Where the Rivers Meet rings true to my experience as a First Nations teacher. It's neither shallow nor superficial—rather, its depth beckons to be explored. Now, Sawyer's latest book Running takes young adult readers down another true path. It will hold readers' attention to a surprising yet triumphant finish."

Saving Farley's Bog

Saving Farley's Bog

by Don Sawyer

$13.95 CDN

ISBN 978-0-9813164-3-7

RL: 4.5

IL: Adult

About the Book

Farley's Bog. A giant developer sees it not as an irreplaceable wetland, but as a prime shopping centre site. And lawyer Daffy Abbott, Toronto PI Stitch Robinson's best friend, is determined to stop them. A familiar clash between environmentalists and developers turns nasty when a town councilor changes his vote to allow the development to go forward. And then disappears. What begins as a missing person investigation for Stitch turns into a murder. And that's just the beginning, as Stitch is drawn into a murky – and dangerous – world of money laundering, offshore banking, thugs and strippers.

About the Author

Don Sawyer has authored more than ten books. These include the award-winning young adult novel, Where the Rivers Meet, and the acclaimed non-fiction account of his first teaching experience in rural Newfoundland, Tomorrow Is School.

Hurricane on Grimm's Island

Hurricane on Grimm's Island
by Don Sawyer

$13.95 CDN
ISBN 978-0-9813164-2-0
RL: 4.5
IL: Adult

About the Book

Stitch Robinson is a Toronto private eye. Disillusioned, all he wants from his vacation in the Bahamas is some peace and quiet. But first a monster hurricane batters his resort on Grimm's Island. Then the body of a beautiful socialite washes up on the beach. With power out and the island cut off, Stitch has to find the killer on his own. He's sick and tired of trailing cheating husbands. But does he have what it takes to find the murderer?

About the Author

Reviews for the Stitch Robinson series

"I thoroughly enjoyed both books. One night I stayed up to 2:30 in the morning, which is way past my bedtime, just to see who did it. They are both real page-turners! You are going to attract people with these who don't normally buy books, as well as appeal to young adults and adult learners. I can see why students scoop them up! Even though they are darned good detective stories with believable characters and situations, they manage to stay light. They are just plain fun to read."
